

Associate Degree Nursing

Allison Pfarrer

Submitted by Mary Sullivan

Allison balances the demanding roles of wife, mother, and full-time nursing student with remarkable grace and dedication. Academically, she is excelling at the highest level in our program, consistently achieving top grades. Beyond her academic success, what truly sets Allison apart is her genuine kindness and compassion, which she extends to everyone she encounters. These qualities will make her an exceptional registered nurse, positively impacting the lives of her patients. Any individual under her care will be fortunate to experience her professionalism and empathy. It is a privilege to speak to Allison's excellence, not only as a student but also as an outstanding human being.
